The boys of The Echo and the Sound are set to release their new double EP Buffalo Mouth later this month, but first they're giving the world a taste of their new batch of "blistering songs of bare bones rock 'n' roll to save your wayward soul" with the lead single "Virginia Law". Influences like Flat Duo Jets and The White Stripes are readily apparent, but the Los Angeles pair bring a unique aspect of grit with their vocals emanating an almost sinister glare. Buffalo Mouth will follow up to their debut, self-titled EP in 2013 and the 2014 EP Its Execution from which a few of the tracks were taken. The new release promises to be some of the best and most bombastic tracks to date and are streaming right now over at GRIMY GOODS.COM!

Full of hip shaking, foot stomping, good ol' fashioned R&R making it a blistering, Tarantino-esque collection impossible to resist. Recorded by Mark Rains (Black Rebel Motorcycle Club, Neon Trees) at Station House Studios in Echo Park, Buffalo Mouth promises to be the most graduated work of The Echo and the Sound yet.

"This L.A.-based duo makes noise enough for four. Singer-guitarist Brian Rich and drummer Douglas Jewell slather on the menace with a heavy march of drum rolls and champagne cymbals to fill every bit of auditory space. Self-described as "gothic cantina," the Echo and the Sound combine an aggressive mentality with blues-rock rhythms for a thick dose of fidelity." - Buzzbands LA

Singer-guitarist Brian Rich and drummer Douglas Jewell slather on the menace with heavy riffs and champagne cymbals to fill every bit of auditory space, providing the soundtrack to a 21st century post-apocalyptic nuclear warfare. It's the sound of dark and broody rock 'n' roll punctuated by punk rock overtones with blues-folk and county undertones. Said to be “one of the most promising up-and-coming bands in L.A.” (Music Connection), the gritty bare-bones rock duo The Echo and the Sound are set to release their special edition Double EP Buffalo Mouth.

"15 Shades of Hell" (Official Music Video)

From the dirt, The Echo and the Sound is a two-piece guitar and drums rock band based in Los Angeles, CA. Formed in 2012 as two parts of a complementary whole, fitting in nowhere else but together, these two East coast and Mid-Atlantic country boys decided to create their own sub-genre to live in. They call it “gothic cantina” and describe it best themselves as sounding like “if Bob Dylan and Sam Shepard got into a fist fight while drinking in a desert cantina.”
